

On December 1, 1955, an african american named Rosa Parks refused too give up her seat on a bus to a white man. As a result, she was arrest and fined. The event sparked a year-long boycott of Montgomery Alabama, busses by her many supporter. One of Rosa's biggest supporters was a young minister named Martin Luther King Jr.. Many consider Rosa Parks bus ride to be the birth of the civil rights movement?